

HLD5000 Refrigerant Leak Detector

IR Technology

We've Cut False Alarms, and the Cost of Ownership

The HLD5000 is for use in the production of air conditioning systems, to assure product quality and minimize warranty costs. The HLD5000 Refrigerant Leak Detector uses an innovative technology to find leaks quickly and reliably with dramatically fewer false alarms. Its newly developed IR sensor offers a substantially extended sensor life. With its dual gas inlet (patent pending) it reliably suppresses any signals caused by other gases present in the atmosphere. The instrument reduces the cost of ownership not only by the extended sensor life, but also by improving the lifetime of all mechanical and electronic parts, and minimizing the number of consumables and their cost.

A selection of probes for different gases is available. The HLD5000 can also be used with the new Smart probe.
